MASTER OF ALKMAAR'S SEVEN WORKS OF MERCY

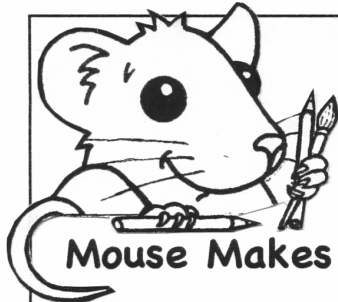

The number seven has always been regarded as a sacred or mystical number. This month we focus on the seven acts of mercy depicted in panels painted by the Master of Alkmaar in 1504. This work was originally commissioned by the Holy Spirit Brotherhood of St Laurence's church in Alkmaar. The panels were badly damaged in the iconoclasm of 1566, but they survived and have been restored to show the power of their message.

Alkmaar's seven panels

The background to each of the panels is a typical city, and so at the very least it is a wonderful impression of Dutch life at the beginning of the 16th century. But the pervasive theme is to show how we can live a good life by practising the seven acts of mercy. In chapter 25 of St. Matthew's Gospel, Jesus tells the Parable of the Sheep and Goats. He has already told his listeners to be ready and awake like the ten bridesmaids and to use our gifts and talents wisely. Now he stresses that the faithful disciple who feeds the hungry, gives a drink to the thirsty, welcomes the stranger, clothes the naked, cares for the sick or visits the prisoner is not only serving those in need around, but serves Jesus himself. To those six acts the medieval tradition added burying the dead, and that is the theme of the central panel where Jesus is shown depicted in the sky above on the Day of Judgement.

In the other acts of mercy, Jesus is there among the people. With the panel showing the feeding of the hungry, we see a couple handing out bread from a basket to those around. Jesus is behind the man giving out the loaves his wife has baked, looking on at this act of goodness. We who stand in front of the panel are reminded that in serving others, we also serve Christ. Follow these examples in the seven panels, the artist is saying, and you will be a faithful disciple. To drive that crucial point home, the inscription below says that good deeds on earth will be repaid a thousand-fold in heaven.

Draw some more fish in the picture then colour it in.

A PICNIC ON THE BEACH

The disciples had fished all night but caught nothing. Jesus, standing on the shore, called out "Throw your net on the right side of the boat". So they did and they caught so many fish they could not pull the net into the boat. When they reached the shore there was a fire already burning with fish on it and some bread.

WHAT A JOY!

More than 150 people visited the exhibition of the artwork of my late wife, Margarita, in the ten hours that it was open. A total of just under £600 was raised through the sale of the postcards of her artwork which, after paying for the cost of printing the cards and the exhibition catalogues, means that £150 each will be given to both Christian Aid and the charity CoHoC, for the work of the Out-Patients Dept. at the Colchester General Hospital.

Of the 25 works of textile art on display, one of the favourites (to judge by visitors' comments) was Seascape - Norfolk, which had been inspired by a family visit to Holkham beach in Norfolk. There is something wonderfully simple about the kind of refreshment we can get by spending some time by the sea. A sense of scale may be restored and we can sense something of an eternal rhythm beyond all our small concerns.

After I had written the catalogue to accompany the Threads of Joy exhibition I discovered some notes written by Margarita about her art. They confirm that it was her response to the glory of God as seen in in the natural world, in a particular place or an ephemeral moment, that inspired her. She wrote:

Psalm 8: 3 - 4

'When I consider the work of your fingers...'

'Whether it is reflections in water, shadows, a spider's web, silhouettes against a colourful sunset, the texture of bark from a variety of trees, a splash of colour from an array of flowers – there is a sense of wonder and a cause for excitement about the glory of God.'

May you know something of the joy and wonder in the glory of God that

Margarita had, as you take time with your family or friends in what are now called holidays but were once known as holy-days - being a time when we can set aside our daily cares to reflect, read, and to pray; to be with those whom we love and to be able to review our priorities and consider afresh our plans for whatever future, by God's grace, is to be ours.

For the first time in many years, with the kind support of my colleague Paul Southern, this Summer I shall be able to do what I am commending to you - that is to take time to enjoy holy-days in this way.

THAT'S WHAT I CALL SHAKESPEARE! 7. 30 p.m. Thursday 2 October

In the 450th year since his birth Shakespeare finally gets a 'Greatest Hits' collection performed in Dedham. Concert trio In Voice and Verse will celebrate his genius by presenting his 'best speeches and sonnets' alongside some great songs. From classical compositions to West End hits you can hear how the Bard has inspired composers. Lance Pierson will join soprano Belinda Yates and pianist Heather Chamberlain to bring the Bard's work to life. Appropriately enough, it comes to our Parish Church on National Poetry Day.

DEDHAM CHURCHYARD

'Private grief in a public place'

As part of the regular maintenance of our church burial grounds, the groundsman has been instructed to remove the following from graves:

- memorials and shrubs placed without permission
- flower containers or tributes that are not made of stone; including those made of plastic, glass, china, porcelain, terracotta or cloth material
- wire, nylon or plastic netting
- artificial flowers
- grave borders of wood or metal
- and, after about a year, all earth mounds or extensions beyond the footprint of an authorised memorial.

Small tokens placed at the foot of a memorial stone may be left for a short while (for example, to mark special anniversaries) but these may not be placed permanently; in due course they will be removed and without further notice.

Whereas some leeway is given to those who have been recently bereaved, after a year all memorials and tributes must be within Diocese of Chelmsford regulations, see:

www.chelmsford.anglican.org/chelmsford-file-memorials-in-churchyards.html

This work is done for the overall appearance of our much-loved country churchyard, as well as for the well-being of those who visit it and maintain it. If you have any cause for concern about a particular grave then please contact the Parish Office.

DEDHAM C.E. PRIMARY SCHOOL

At the end of May, I had the privilege of visiting our partner school, Gatunduri Primary, in Embu, Kenya. The partnership began four years ago and since then three reciprocal visits have taken place.

'Connecting Classrooms' is a global education project funded by the British Council and is designed to help young people to learn about global issues and to become responsible global citizens. The partnerships enable educators to share best practice and give young people the chance to collaborate with their international peers on curriculum-based activities.

Over the past few years we have collaborated on: developing areas for growing food, producing artwork, developing 'forest' areas, sharing curriculum topics and learning about each other's daily lives.

Little could prepare me for the incredible nine days that I was to spend in Kenya. Yes, the classrooms have mud walls and floors, yes, the toilets are holes in the ground, yes, there are children who are sent to school with no food because their parents can't afford to buy any, and yes, there are few resources in the classrooms. However, the joy in those children's faces, the dedication they demonstrate to learning and achieving in life and the appreciation that they have for so little will live with me forever.

There are twenty classes and around 850 children in total at the school. I worked on hand-eye coordination and the numbers 0-10 with the 'baby' class and it was singing and story-telling with the older classes and they were delighted to receive some percussion instruments to accompany their wonderful singing. The children also taught me some songs which I will be teaching to the Dedham children during hymn practices.

It is difficult to sum up the week and my experiences in so few words but I hope to develop an area on our school website over the coming months so that more correspondence can be shared between the schools with children, parents and the community.

HALLFIELDS DEVELOPMENT

Dedham Parish Council has been having discussions with Hills Building Group regarding a proposed development of the Hallfields site in Manningtree Road. An exhibition to review the proposals is planned for 3 - 7 p.m. on Tuesday 9 September in the Duchy Barn. Proposals include a combination of private housing for sale and affordable housing to rent which will be managed by the Colne Housing Trust. Representatives of the developers and the Trust will be available to give further details. The exhibition will provide a valuable opportunity for residents to view and comment on the proposals prior to the submission of a planning application later that month. It is anticipated that the Council will consider its formal response to this application at either its October or November meeting.

WEBSITE

We are pleased to announce that John Goldsbrough has kindly volunteered to help the Parish Council with the on-going process of developing and improving its website. John can be contacted on ☎ 322 422.

NEIGHBOURHOOD WATCH

We are proposing to revive the Neighbourhood Watch scheme in the village. We hope you will support this initiative by completing and returning the circulated form to Dedham Pharmacy by the end of September.

DEDHAM IN BLOOM

Thank you to local businessman Marc Everett for his sponsorship of the village flower tubs on the High Street, which gave us a wonderful Spring display and are now replanted with Summer bedding. The tubs on the War Memorial, planted by the primary school children, are also looking beautiful in readiness for the centenary of the beginning of World War I in August.

Ten Years Ago August / September 2004

◆ FAREWELL RAY 'For over five years Ray Gibbs has been an important part of the ministry of Dedham Parish Church, as its first-ever "Youth and Families Worker". In addition to his part-time work in this parish he has also been the Colchester Area Youth Officer... We wish Ray, Sue, Rachel and Sarah the very best of God's blessings as they make their ministry move' [to Myland, Colchester]

◆ CONNECTED BY THREADS 'The Colne and Colchester Branch of the Embroiderers' Guild held an exhibition of their work in the parish church in early July which was a delight to the many visitors who came. Among the many compliments paid were "wonderful work in a beautiful setting" and "A relaxing and soothing venue for inspiring work, a credit to the Guild". Chairman Sue March was assisted by other willing hands [including Margarita Moate] for this first, but hopefully not last, Guild exhibition.'

Fifty Years Ago August / September 1964

◆ NORTH PORCH TO BE RESTORED 'You will be delighted to know that through the thoughtful generosity of a donor, who wishes to remain anonymous, our North Porch will soon be restored.... We hope that by the time of the next meeting of the Parochial Church Council... to have some definite suggestions regarding the restoration of the West windows of the North and South Aisles.'

A Century Ago August / September 1914

◆ ON THE OUTBREAK OF WAR 'Services of Intercession, published by Authority, will be held on Wednesday and Friday at 12 noon. There will also be an opportunity of joining in the Intercessory Prayers at the Lecturer's Service at 11.30 on Tuesday mornings. These services will be held until further notice... The Vicar is anxious to form a complete list of all those who have left this parish to join the colours, and to serve abroad or in home defence. [Of the fifteen names listed as known to the Vicar, published in Sept. 1914, only two were eventually to be listed on the War Memorial.]
